To whom it may concern:

In April of 2007 we had a fire in our paint store. The store was severely damaged and resulted in a fairly major insurance claim. I was contacted by a representative of Adjusters International, a public insurance adjuster, and I contracted with them to represent me in my insurance claim.

Adjusters International handled every aspect of our claim and completely removed that burden from me. I was free to concentrate on getting my business back up and running, and didn't have to worry about the insurance company.

The last thing anybody needs during a crisis like a fire is more things to worry about. Adjusters International is an outstanding bunch of folks and I highly recommend them if you ever have an insurance claim like mine. They are extremely knowledgeable.

Sincerely,
